II. SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE:

During August, September, October and November 1944 Japanese military forces maintained the garrison at the Medellin Sugar Central near Bogo, Cebu, P.I. In these four months civilians in this vicinity were beaten, shot, bayoneted and raped.

on 17 August 1944 a Filipino fisherman was shot and killed because he refused to work at the sugar mill (R 23).

In September 1944 a suspected guerrilla in custody at the garrison was shot and wounded. As he ran outside the guard-house in an effort to escape, he fell and was bayoneted to death (R 23). Three Filipino girls who had been seized by the Japanese and apparently raped repeatedly were led away from the garrison, after which, shots were heard. Six days later their dead bodies were found near the wharf (R 33).

On 12 October 1944 two women were bayoneted to death in their home (R 22) and a third was severely beaten (R 52). Two other Filipino girls were raped, one of them by several Japanese soldiers (R 25, 28, 29). One of the victims then was forced to live with a Japanese corporal as his mistress for three weeks (R 29).

On 17 October 1944 Japanese soldiers burned houses and a warehouse (R 2). The same day twenty-five persons were bayoneted to death, apparently in revenge for sabotage and guerrilla activities (R 17, 18).

During November 1944 two prisoners were bayoneted to death by some twenty Japanese soldiers apparently for having worn khaki clothing (R 10).
